

A Conspicuous Florida Character in New York.

Maj. M. R. Marks, one of Florida's best known and popular citizens, is in New York floating large enterprises, says the New York Press. He carries his sixty-eight years as if they were thirty-eight, and says he is just beginning to know what life is. He will not settle down there, however. "New York is a mighty good place to visit and do business in," he declares, "but I wouldn't live here if you gave me the whole island." A friend called the major into a hat shop to ask his opinion of a new head covering he had just bought for summer. "Hat's all right if you cut a few holes in the crown," said the great land broker. "Never wear a hot-box on your head. Ventilate, ventilate! Keep your head cool, and you'll have more brains and more hair." His own broad-brimmed slouch hat had two jagged holes in the crown. He cut them with a dull pocket knife.

Maj. Marks resembles Lincoln in that every new, old and middle-aged story, anecdote, narrative, legend, tale, fable, parable and tradition hatched in his part of the country is credited to him. "Why is it, major, that you are held morally responsible for everything that is said in Florida?" an acquaintance asked. "Because, my young friend, I am the only man in the state that's got any character to lose," was the solemn reply. The major says he has quit selling land where he has to put ice in the spring and give deeds to gophers.

Much Reading for Little Money.

The New York World has got the cost of printing down to a minimum. Its latest offer of its monthly newspaper-magazine is interesting if from no other cause than that it shows the same of "how much for how little."

The Monthly World is a 32 page magazine with colored cover. Its pages are about the size of the pages of the Ladies' Home Journal, and it is copiously illustrated in half-tone. The illustrations are the result of the best artistic skill, aided by all the latest printing-press appliances, making a magazine unrivalled in the quality of its contents and its appearance.

Each issue contains stories of romance, love, adventure, travel; stories of fiction and fact; stories of things quaint and curious, gathered from all over the world; the results of scientific research, and editorial reviews. It numbers among its contributors the leading literary men and women of the day.

A feature each month is a full page portrait of the most famed man or woman of the moment in the public eye.

In collecting and preparing for publication the literary matter and art subjects for the Monthly World no expense is spared.

The New York World will send six numbers of this newspaper-magazine on receipt of fifteen cents in stamps. Address The World, Pulitzer building, New York.

Says He Was Tortured.

"I suffered such pain from corns I could hardly walk," writes H. Robinson, Hillsborough, Ill., but Bucklen's Arnica Salve completely cured them. "Acts like magic on sprains, bruises, cuts, sores, scalds, burns, ulcers, boils. Perfect healer of skin diseases and piles. Cure guaranteed by Garrett & Gerig. 25c."
